New Zealand Irrigation Scheme Contract Award

Engineering company Monadelphous Group Limited (ASX:MND) (“Monadelphous”) today announced it has secured a major construction contract associated with the Amuri irrigation scheme in New Zealand valued at approximately AUD 58 million.

The contract involves the supply, installation and commissioning of a 130 kilometre water pipeline network for Amuri Irrigation Company Limited, north of Christchurch, on New Zealand’s South Island. The pipeline network will deliver pressurised irrigation water from existing canal system intakes to a large number of demand offtakes for farming in the region. The project is due for completion by September 2017.

Monadelphous Managing Director, Rob Velletri, said the contract award was another important milestone in the Company’s growth and diversification strategy.

“We’re very pleased with today’s announcement. This significant contract continues to build on our strong track record in the delivery of irrigation projects and strengthens our position in the growing water infrastructure market in New Zealand,” he said.
